

Adult Residential Summer Theatre School

January 14-20, 2018

Unicol, Otago University, Dunedin
& Allen Hall

For five days and six nights you will live breathe eat practise your craft, net-work, revitalise, 'get away from it all' and focus on YOU. This is an 'intensive live-in' workshop.

Do you a community theatre practitioner want to change direction, expand your horizons, re-energise? Wondering if you could train to be professional? Not getting the roles you seek? Well this Summer School is for you. Theatre is experiential – you can't just read about it in a book and then do it!

Three seasoned practitioners have been engaged to lead groups focussing on three separate yet inter-twined aspects of theatre. Each course is self-contained and full time for the week. The evening forums are included in the overall fee for full-time attendees and inter-link to the base courses.

Quote: "Like most actors moving into directing, I copied the techniques – good and bad – from directors I had worked with. This intensive course helped me to develop my own style with the language I needed to communicate with the production team and empower my actors." Joy Crawford.
